Arguments that have been repeated over and over again, to the effect, that the Impeial government sie not only bound by humanity to the troops whom they station here for the planest principles of prudence, by the commonest sort of common sense, to build when ! they can do this at about four years' purchase instead of going on with this ruinous rental year after year. - these arguments derive no mony persons who did not appregiate their cogency before. We believe that notice has been given to the proprietors of some of the buildings mentioned above, that the government tenuncy is to be brought to a close. In this case it is clear that the permanent astablishment of the black troops bere is contemplated, and that the great and complicated interests of England in the far east, are to be left to all intents and purposes anguarded. But it is t harilly so with the extreme reformer. All these, however, are no more than the first ridge of the Alba. There are free and secret voting to be settled by the ballot-bax; the equalisation of constituencies, involving a redistribution of seats; as every man and perhaps every woman-at least unmarried women, maintaining themselves by their property or business, and paring taxes will vote at aleations, it would be inconsistent not to let every one be also voted for and returned to Parliament; and as root people exampt live upon nothing, mem-! hers will of course have to be paid. We see something very like this is one of the extreme parties in America. Freedom is the means of happiness; but they are for freeing the named irrespective of his real happiness and good irrespective of all consequences whatever. He may he free to starve, free to degenerate into esmething worse than his original barbariem and matter, so that he be only free. Asin a period of tutoinge or apprenticeship and transition, that is Plan not to be thought of: loose him and let him go whithersnever he listeth (even though he should be choose the waret of all possible roads). Absolute: inconditional, impediate emancipation is to be f loved and carried out for its own sake, no matter the Tunders, at which time the parties tendering in one common ruin, or not, Perhaps it is good that there should be this surplus and superadepiacy of impulse and mative nower; but it would he bud if there were not a strong vis inertia to prevent the world from sharing the face of a train attached to a runaway engine.

The South and its Merces. (From the Herald.)

One of our contemporaries, in his yearly summary informs us that Davis, and Lee, and Jackson, the heroes of the Contederate war of judependence, are already forgatten by their own you arymen and by Englishmen. If this be so, fam sis even a more frugila and evanescent thing then it has been said to be. It is only success we are told, that rough the laurals, the inc. itubic down of those who fail is to gut in oblivion. And vet, perhaps, it would not be difficult to find some i who would stoner have died with Jackson than lived with flooker, who would rather have falled with Lee than have conquered with Grant, A self-denying patriotica, a devotion to a losing outed a perseverance in a contest in which all the world is against him, are qualities, which will care a man applaise even in a world in which the majority are ever ready to give their suffrage to the winner. If the cause Poland was able to rouse such an enthusiasm. Togginsky was almost deified by the men of his day, if princes shed tears for him, and nocie chanted dirges over his grave there i enough of chivalry left among us to inspire us with pity and sympathy for the heroes of a grander and more publy contested struggle-a buttle of the Titans; in which the power of a giant. was confronted with a giant's endurance. Europe might well have mourned and "freedom shricked" at the death of Jackson as much as at the full of Kosciusko. Like Epmninondas. Mantinen. like Wolfe at Quebec, like Monro : Cornana, like Nelson at Trafalgar, like Havelac Mer his nine hatelon, "Storewall" Incken died in the arms of victory. It is not likely that his energy will be inrection to long as the English language is read and spoken. At some immensely district time, some thousands of years hence, when the 15th instant for the supply of the following the records of the accient British and that articles for Navy Service from the let April 1860 branch of their race which took possession of the to continent of North America become matters of carious interest to savans, who will exhains on horos and our monuments, and quarrel over the fragments of our records as we of this day do over the bieroglyphics of Ramesca or the cones of Sennacherib, the very fact of the American was and those who fought in it may be forgotten.
